"Standing By"

These are the days of maintenance, protection, and betterment as applied to all assets and values worth keeping.

Apply this in the home church, where Christian Endeavor societies, at several levels, are traditional. Are these societies maintained in close relationship to the total program of the church? No department or function of a church should be taken for granted or left wholly under the guidance and protection of a few adult helpers.

The church has enough sound experience with benefits of Christian Endeavor to children, youth, and the church of the future to maintain and develop this portion of the program. Let there be, then, a continuing committee of adults—ready and alert to confer on opportunities and progress with pastor, volunteer adult counselors and superintendents, and youth members. Let them be ready to lend their aid and advice to promoting and improving the Christian Endeavor programs, in close cooperation with the pastor and others. Let the committee be aware of interdenominational opportunities and activities in which the church's own children and youth may share.

Sponsoring adults will not expect weekly participation in Christian Endeavor work and activities. The group will "stand by" in an advisory capacity. How much fine help and encouragement they may provide quietly in this relationship!

85 YEARS ALIVE!

Christian Endeavor Week 1966 brought wintry weather and lots of snow to many areas, causing cancellation or curtailment of activities.

As Mrs. Mae Sue Wynn, president of the Varick Christian Endeavor, Zion Temple A.M.E. Zion Church, Madisonville, Kentucky, reported: "All activities at our church were canceled the week of January 30-February 6 due to 12 below zero weather. However, we had the worship service with a small number in attendance." In Alexandria, Virginia, the societies of First Christian Fellowship Church had to cancel their birthday banquet due to two feet of snow; the junior high and senior high societies did take complete charge of the evening service on February 6 with 125 participating.

Winter weather was no problem to Endeavorers of Elmslie United Church, in Georgetown, Grand Cayman, West Indies. Noel A. Johnson, president, reports a whole week of activities including an all-day conference at East End on February 1 which featured visitation, a children's hour, and an open-air service. There was a banquet February 2, a service at West Bay United Church on February 3, a consecration service February 4, and a hike to the "Pines" West Bay Beach on February 5.

The youth of Boulevard Evangelical Congregational Church in Allentown, Pennsylvania, also had a week-long series of events including participation in Sunday and Wednesday services and a party with other groups as guests, when the film "What Price Freedom" was shown.

A WINDOW DISPLAY at Thalhimers, largest downtown department store in Richmond, was prepared by Virginia Endeavorers to tell the Christian Endeavor story.

Societies Combine

In many churches societies of various age groups combined to observe the Week. The four societies of Central Tabernacle, Winston-Salem, North Carolina, planned and conducted the prayer service February 2 and the evening service February 6, plus a birthday party Saturday night. The Wednesday evening service dealt with missions; youth presented the topic, adults the music, and junior highs served as ushers.

FIVE SOCIETIES from Primary to Adult age at Memorial Church in Atascadero, California, are represented in the above photo. Each group participated in the Sunday evening birthday celebration — the high school and college age youth decorated the room; juniors led the song service; primaries had the devotional; adults, games; and junior highs, refreshments. The cake was decorated by Mrs. Agnes Wedlake.

At Beverly Hills United Presbyterian Church, Upper Darby, Pennsylvania, the intermediate, senior, and Pohco societies held a parents' night at their February 6 meetings, each group presenting a typical program showing projects and activities. The three societies also conducted the evening service.

The junior, intermediate, and senior societies of Miles Avenue Church of Christ, Cleveland, Ohio, combined to conduct the entire Sunday service on February 6. The sermon was given by Kenneth Lanza on the subject "The Problem of Zombis"; he is the youth preacher of 1966 for the church.

Dian Vander Molen, society president of First Reformed Church in Kalamazoo, Michigan, reports that the junior high, senior, and post high school societies participated in Sunday morning church services and held a birthday potluck supper with 175 attending.

Banquets and Parties

Many groups planned banquets and birthday parties. The Allen Christian Endeavor Fellowship of Smith Chapel A.M.E. Church in Dallas, Texas, took charge of a special program which was followed by a fellowship hour.

Endeavorers of Doe Run United Presbyterian Church of Mortonville, Pennsylvania, sponsored a covered dish supper and service; these young people also took charge of the morning worship with Gloria Sammons, Penny Newlin, and Fonda Mercer giving the sermon.

The young people of First Christian Church of Seagoville, Texas, and the Christian Endeavor societies of Coats Grove Christian Church, Hastings, Michigan, also held parties.

Many participated in evangelistic meetings. The youth of Northbrook United Brethren in Christ Church of Cincinnati, Ohio, led the devotions during revival services as well as making posters and providing special music. Four new members signed the pledge during the Week.

The junior high Endeavorers of the United Brethren in Christ Church of Ypsilanti took charge of a revival service one night during the Week; after the service there was a period of fellowship with youth from other churches.

A SPECIAL feature of Arch McQuilkin's presidential tour of Illinois during Christian Endeavor Week was the distribution of hundreds of his photos to youth, who stood in line like these at the Chicago banquet for autographs.

THE THERMOMETER stood at a cold 13° but this did not deter Peoria Endeavorers from decorating cars for a Saturday afternoon witness parade. Ten cars participated — the maximum allowed by police. All were decorated with red and white crepe paper and Christian Endeavor signs; they were permitted to use their horns as they drove around so much attention was attracted.

THE PRESIDENT IN ILLINOIS

PRESIDENT ARCH and Steve Lindstrom, Peoria birthday week chairman, ready for the parade. Over 200 attended the Peoria banquet Friday evening. Very bad weather kept Mr. McQuilkin from reaching Illinois for meetings in Morrison and Granite City, but he did participate in activities in Sangamon County, the Peoria area, and Chicago.

THESE YOUTH from Springfield and Peoria journeyed to Chicago by chartered bus for the Saturday evening banquet. Chicago Union featured Mr. McQuilkin at a rally Sunday afternoon, February 6, at St. Paul's Union Church.

MORE BIRTHDAY REPORTS

Drama was a part of the Week's celebration, too. Members of the Players Guild of the Allen Christian Endeavor Fellowship of St. John A.M.E. Church in Montgomery, Alabama, presented the play, "What Is Wrong with the Youth?"

Union Activities

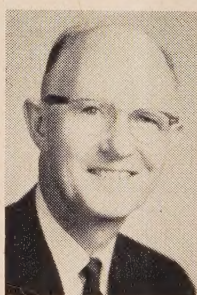

There were numerous union and area meetings. The Christian Endeavorers of First Reformed Church, Lynden, Washington, participated in a Northwest Area rally with 180 present. These youth also took part in the morning church service; the youth choir of 80 members sang and three young people gave five minute talks.

In Pennsylvania, the Delaware County Union and the West Branch Union of Philadelphia County joined together for a banquet in Rutledge, Pennsylvania, with 240 participating. Dr. John W. Cawood was the speaker.

Youth of Crestview United Brethren Church, Lafayette, Indiana, sponsored a rally for local societies February 6.

A variety of other activities included window displays like that in the Christian Book Store of Butler, Pennsylvania, featuring Christian Endeavor materials and mementoes. Butler County Endeavorers also participated in a half hour radio broadcast over Station WISR February 5.

Your Will!

IS GOD in your Will? He was in Wilbur H. Hamilton's. And recently the International Society of Christian Endeavor received a check for Five Hundred Dollars in payment of the legacy bequeathed to it under the terms of the Will of the late civic, political, and religious leader of the City of Philadelphia. • The life of faith and service which Mr. Hamilton lived continues because his was a Christian Will. Because Wilbur Hamilton thought to remember God while he lived, so Wilbur Hamilton lives on and witnesses now as he did then. Many of the works undertaken during his lifetime, such as Christian Endeavor, will continue and be strengthened because Wilbur Hamilton had God in his Will. • The making of a Will by a Christian is part of the exercise of his Christian conviction and faith. It is a kind of stewardship after death that supports and continues a stewardship begun in life. Making a Will gives stewardship a dimension that reaches into eternity. • The Christian's Will makes firm his public witness of faith. It is evidence of his acknowledgment of the trusteeship of what God has entrusted to him. It provides for the disposition of his possessions as he might have decided. It insures the continuation after death of those things which were close to him in life. • Christian Endeavorers are urged to remember Christian Endeavor in their Wills. Consult your attorney or write to International Headquarters. Helpful information will be given. • Have you made a Will? Is God in it?
